THE FINANCIAL CHILD? DEBT AND INVESTMENT FOR KIDS, 1989-2016

Financialization of everyday life and the moral imperative of parents to invest in their children's future has given rise to a "financial child." The 1989-2016 Survey of Consumer Finances, supplemented by National Center for Educational Statistics data, document differences across investment and debt for the sake of kids by families from different socio-economic and racial backgrounds. I discuss the consequences for inequality among American families.
